*What is a Life Coach at Water Street Mission?

A Life Coach participates “in the Water Street Mission Healing Model* by partnering with Guests in a safe environment to address the results of the various levels of trauma in an individualized, highly relational, strengths-based manner.”

As Christian Life Coaches, we continually seek the guidance of the Holy Spirit in a faithful practice of discernment. Our Guests come from diverse religious backgrounds and commitments, yet we believe the same Spirit knows the plans, strengths, and callings God has for each of our Guests. The Life Coach partners with the Holy Spirit, and joins His work in our Guests’ lives.

Life Coaches give full attention to the present moment. This inspires Guests to maximize opportunities for personal growth and move toward healthy life transformation as an ultimate goal. Life Coaches strive to be fully open and curious. They ask relevant, clear questions which prompt Guests to think about new possibilities and perspectives. These conversations may reveal thoughts, plans, and goals that Guests may have dismissed as impossible. Coaching is designed to help Guests remain focused on self-identified goals and encourage the abandonment of distractions and deterrents. At times, Coaches may need to direct the Guest to other resources which exceed the WSM Life Coach role.

A Life Coach builds a safe, trusting environment in which they make listening a top priority. They allow Guests to share completely, without judgement. When this environment is established with intention, a Guest feels open to talk about hopes and fears, wants and needs with sharp focus on the goals they have set for themselves. Life

Coaching is done from a perspective of unity where we discover that our Guests desire the same things in life that we want -- what all people want. We want someone to care about us and take time to listen to our story. We want someone to believe in us and encourage us by speaking words of assurance that better things are ahead. We want to be valued and respected for who we are and for the skills and talents we possess. Above all, we want to be a part of a larger community where we are loved, welcomed, embraced, and accepted no matter where we come from, what our background is, or what mistakes we may have made in the past. This is accomplished with no personal agenda for the path a Guest may choose. The Coach's role is not to take responsibility for Guests' choices but to empower the Guests to feel confident moving from where they are to where they want to be.

Jesus is the perfect model of a Life Coach. He was able to help people gain a deeper understanding of themselves and their potential for positive change. He used powerful questioning and demonstration to accomplish this. He understood and showed us how grace, truth, and time are central to a person's life transformation.
